INTRODUCTION

The first Debate Index, published by The Wilson Company, was issued as part of the Debaters' Manual (6th edition rev. 1929). In 1932 it was brought up to date and issued as a separate, on the suggestion of Mr. Ralph Munn and Miss Irene Stewart of the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh, who believed that there was still need for such a tool, but that for certain reasons it was not practical for the Library to issue another edition of its own Debate Index (3d edition 1919).

A supplement to the 1932 edition of the Debate Index was published in 1935, and is now out of print, and the supply of the 1932 edition is about exhausted. In view of the new material now available, it was decided to prepare a new edition that would be up to date, and also include references to the still worthwhile materials indexed in the 1932 volume and its 1935 supplement.

The most difficult problem to solve, in the preparation of this new edition, was where to draw the line in the retention of entries appearing in the previous volumes. Would it be better to limit this new index to subjects of present-day importance and in their present-day aspects; and to materials still in print? Or would the average reference librarian prefer to find in this one place references to books on the shelves, even though the books themselves may deal with subjects somewhat outmoded, or are out of print? At the risk of incurring criticism for including many references to older materials, it was decided to reprint all references in the earlier indexes which might possibly be of use, for readers and research workers, as well as debaters, and so make reference to the earlier indexes, for the most part, unnecessary.

Subject headings have been chosen to conform to those used in the Readers' Guide, to facilitate use by instructors and students, already accustomed to periodical indexes.

Certain sources of material, such as the Library of Congress, etc., where bibliographies are regularly prepared and distributed, and certain series of books or debate handbooks, or collections of debate materials, are listed in a preliminary section, "Materials Analyzed," with full information as to where such materials can be obtained. Bibliographies that are tagged "(P.A.I.S.)" are only to be obtained by purchase from the Public Affairs Information Service, 11 West 40th St. New York.

The compiler wishes to make acknowledgment to all who have assisted with information or advice, especially to editors and publishers who have so willingly sent editorial copies of their publications or full information about them.
